CHOICE, et al.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

GREG ABBOTT, in his official capacity as Governor of Texas, et al.,

Defendants.

No. 1:20-cv-00323-LY

DECLARATION OF JANE DOE IN SUPPORT OF PLAINTIFFS' MOTION FOR A TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER AND PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

Jane Doe declares the following:

1. I am a 24-year-old college student and reside in Arlington, Texas. My appointment for an abortion in Texas on March 23, 2020, was cancelled because of Governor Abbott's Executive Order No. GA-09.
2. I submit this declaration in support of Plaintiffs' motion for a temporary restraining order followed by a preliminary injunction, which seeks to enjoin the Executive Order, as interpreted by the Texas Attorney General to ban most abortions in Texas as well as the Texas Medical Board's emergency amendment to 22 TAC § 187.57 ("Emergency Rule"), which imposes the same requirements as the Executive Order.
3. The facts I state here are based on my personal experience.
4. I am studying to become a secondary school teacher. I am planning to graduate this spring, but I have not gotten a teaching position yet.

5. Throughout college, I have been waiting tables part-time to support myself. About three weeks ago, I lost my job. Because of the COVID-19 outbreak, my restaurant announced that it would close down for eight weeks. It gave my coworkers and me information about applying for unemployment.

6. The same week I lost my job waiting tables, I became worried that I might be pregnant, even though my partner and I had been using birth control. Even before I took the at-home pregnancy test, I knew what I was going to do if it was positive. My partner and I were on the same page: This wasn't the right time. I had just lost my job. I was still in school. And I would need to start applying and interviewing for new jobs, which I expected would be harder to get if schools knew I was pregnant. And the biggest factor for me was simply that I didn't want to become a parent right now.

7. Coronavirus was all over the news, but I wasn't panicked about getting an appointment until I started calling abortion clinics. That's when I realized it was going to be tough to be seen in a timely fashion. Clinics kept telling me they couldn't see me for three or four weeks. Eventually, I secured an appointment in Fort Worth for the following week.

8. On Friday, March 20, I went to the clinic alone. I wasn't allowed to bring my partner because of the social distancing rules in place. In order to limit the number of patients inside the clinic, they actually had us sign in and wait in our cars. I sat in my car in the clinic parking lot for two hours before I was able to enter the building. Lots of other patients were waiting in their cars, too. Meanwhile, anti-abortion protesters stood about 10 feet away with signs and screamed at me and other patients. Later, I heard some nurses talking about how one woman got intimidated and drove off.

9. The appointment took five hours. The clinic gave me a sonogram over my belly and took blood. I was under 10 weeks pregnant so I qualified for a medication abortion. But Texas has a 24-hour waiting period, so the clinic couldn't let me go forward with the medication abortion that day even though I was certain of my decision and did not want to expose myself or anyone else to further risk of infection by having to come in for a second appointment. I had to come back for a second appointment. The soonest they could see me was in four days, which was Tuesday, March 24.

10. I was experiencing severe pregnancy symptoms. I was throwing up every day throughout the day. I wasn't able to study or eat. I felt so tired I could barely get out of bed. But I had no choice except to wait.

11. The night of Monday, March 23, I got a phone call from the clinic. My second appointment the next day was cancelled. The staffer told me that Gov. Greg Abbott halted all abortions in the state, claiming that medical supplies needed to be saved for other patients. I started to cry, and she cried too. She told me my only option at that point was to go out of state or delay my abortion and possibly be forced to have a baby. I was dumbfounded. I had a plan and everything came crashing down.

12. My partner was with me during the call, and we cried together afterward. Waiting to see if I could get an abortion later in Texas was not an option. I felt so sick. I didn't want to be pregnant one day longer, and I couldn't risk the possibility that I would run out of time to have an abortion while the outbreak continued. It seemed to be getting more and more difficult to travel. I also wanted to have a medication abortion so that I could do it in the privacy of my own home with my partner. Because of the clinic's rules during the COVID-19 outbreak, support companions weren't allowed in the clinic at all during procedural abortions. The clinic told me that medication abortion wasn't available after ten weeks of pregnancy in Texas, so I knew that if I wanted to obtain a medication abortion, I needed to act quickly.

13. After the call, my partner and I began researching abortion restrictions in the states nearest Texas. Oklahoma has a 72-hour waiting period so I didn't want go there. I would have had to make more than one trip during the pandemic to meet that requirement and spend even more than I already had to.

14. We also looked at clinics in New Mexico, which would have been about a nine-hour drive each way for me. One was closed, and the others told me they couldn't see me for three or four weeks.

15. So then we looked at Colorado. I made a bunch of calls. On Monday night at about 11 p.m., I finally was able to make an online appointment with a clinic in Denver that could see me for a medication abortion on Thursday.

16. It's a 12-hour drive from my house and roughly 780 miles on the road one-way to Denver. My partner couldn't afford to miss work to accompany me. We were worried that he would have to explain to his boss why he was taking three days away from work. We didn't want to reveal to his employer that I was having an abortion. Luckily, my partner still has a job.

17. I couldn't have done the drive alone, and I was scared. My best friend came up on Tuesday from Austin to go with me. She also lost her job at a restaurant a couple weeks ago, so she was free.

18. My partner packed a box of sanitizing supplies for us to take on our trip, and we brought food to help avoid the need to make stops and risk exposure to the virus. My friend and I started out early on Wednesday and drove throughout the day. I rented the cheapest AirBnB I could find in Denver, and we wiped it down with disinfectant when we got there before sleeping.

19. My appointment was in the afternoon on Thursday, March 26. I noticed when we arrived at the clinic that two other cars with Texas license plates were in the parking lot. I had to go through the sonogram, bloodwork, and counseling all over again. But since Colorado does not have a 24-hour waiting period, the clinic I went to was able to give me the medication for my abortion without further delay. I took the first pill there and they sent me home with the second pill.

20. My friend and I started the twelve-hour drive home at 3:30 p.m. It felt like we were in a race against time because the clinic recommended that I take the second pill 24 to 30 hours after the time I took the first pill. We didn't want to take breaks or rest because I was worried about having my abortion in the car.

21. We drove about six hours but had to stop. It was pitch black, and we were exhausted. It was too dangerous for us to keep going. We had to rent a hotel room and stay there until the morning.

22. I got home in the afternoon on Friday, March 27. The provider in Colorado had recommended that I try to get as comfortable as possible before taking the second pill. I wanted to make sure I could eat a meal before taking the medication because I worried I would feel too nauseous afterwards to eat anything. By the time I took the second pill, nearly thirty hours had passed since the first one.

23. I was exhausted, and only then was I able to have my abortion. I passed the pregnancy Friday night at home with my partner.

24. With the cost of the AirBnB, gas, food, and parking, I've had to pay a lot more money out of pocket to get this abortion than I should have had to. I've spent nearly $1,000, including the cost of the abortion itself, which is not covered by my health insurance. I've had to drain my savings to pay these costs.

25. Then there's the additional stress. Obviously, had this pregnancy not been a factor, I wouldn't be traveling during a pandemic. I already felt like it was risky for me to travel to a nearby clinic in Fort Worth to have my appointment. Instead, I was forced to drive across the country, to stop at dirty gas stations, to stay in an unfamiliar home, just to get health care. I feel like Texas put me, and my best friend, in danger.

26. With all of this stress and unexpected travel, I haven't been able to finish my application for unemployment benefits yet, so I probably won't get a check for at least another week. Even then the benefits will be a fraction of what I made working at a restaurant, and I now have fewer savings to cover the difference.

27. Despite everything I've been through this week, I feel incredibly grateful. I had savings. I have a partner with income. I don't already have kids. I had a best friend with a car who could go with me on a long, unexpected trip. So far I'm not sick. So many Texans don't have those things right now. And unlike me, many of them are much further along in pregnancy than I was. I have no idea how they're going to get the abortion care they need. Based on my own experience, I expect many will not. I know I was desperate, and desperate people take desperate steps to protect themselves.

28. I was born and raised in Texas. Right now, I feel let down by my government. I feel like Governor Abbott doesn't care about me or other patients who need essential abortion care. Why is my life not important enough to him and the other men making these decisions? Frankly, I feel like my constitutional rights were violated when I needed them the most.

29. I want to submit this declaration under a pseudonym because the information I am sharing in this action about my reproductive health care history is private and personal. I would not feel comfortable if this information and my name became public, especially because I will be looking for a job in the coming weeks. I also fear that if this information and my name became public, I would become a target for harassment by anti-abortion protestors.

30. I swear under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.
